NIALL is BACK!

Niall Horan has returned with his first taste of new music in three years, and we couldn't be more excited! His first single on the new album, "Heaven," is already a smash, and it's a song Niall is proud to have out in the world because it's so personal. "One thing I've learned over the years is that society loves to pressure us into reaching certain milestones by a certain age," he explains of the tune's inspiration. "Whether that's getting married or anything else that really should be based on our own instincts. As I've gotten older, I've tried to let go of those expectations and just follow my heart. The chorus of this song is saying that what I have in my life currently is amazing. So it would be crazy to ruin that by giving into outside pressures."

It's not just new music Niall has in store. He'll also be spending this summer experiencing a first in his career: performing at music festivals! "I've never really had the opportunity to do it," he spills. "I'm really excited about [it]. Can't wait to get back on the road and see you guys all over the world."

IS IT

FIND OUT IF THE LATEST BUZZ ON YOUR FAVE STARS IS TOTALLY TRUE OR A RUDE RUMOR!

DOES DOVE HATE HER OLD MUSIC?

If you love Dove Cameron, you've probably noticed that some of her early hit songs like "LazyBaby" are a little hard to find. Most of them have been completely wiped from music streaming services, leaving fans to wonder if Dove is embarrassed by those songs. Well, not exactly! Instead Dove feels like she wasn't being genuine while creating that music, and she only wants listeners to have music that's real. "I didn't know myself or love myself enough to write about anything real because I didn't have access to those parts of me," she shares. "And I hated myself, so even if I tried to, I'd be rejecting it." With this new era of her career, starting with her smash single, "Boyfriend," Dove is certain that everything she releases is authentic. And, if you're worried you'll one day open a playlist only to find a bunch of Dove's songs missing, rest assured that won't happen again. "That was a one-time thing," she says. "And I really hope my fans can respect that."

FALSE

DO THE JONAS BROTHERS REGRET CAMP ROCK?

Have you watched an old movie from your childhood and cringed at something you used to love? The Jonas Brothers know how you feel! Looking back at their movie Camp Rock, the brothers can see that it hasn't exactly aged well. "I don't want to say that the movie is bad by any means, but when you watch the clips that are viral now on TikTok … some of the lines are really questionable," Nick says. Even so, he's happy that the movie and its soundtrack are still impacting fans! "We're really proud that the movie means more to our adult fans now than it did back when they were kids," he shares.

FALSE

HAVE CAMILA AND RUDY BEEN SECRETLY DATING?

There's a new couple in Hollywood! Camila Mendes and Rudy Mancuso started dating last June, but they decided to keep the relationship on the low. Now, Camila is torn between talking nonstop about her BF, or keeping things under wraps. "I'm constantly changing my perspective on it," she says. "The things is, I love so hard when I'm in love that I always want to show off my [relationship]. I am still in the honeymoon [phase], but it's one of those situations where I feel like I've known him my whole life, and that's something I actually have never felt before." Aw, sounds like it's a perfect match!

TRUE

IS JISOO FINALLY GOING SOLO?

She's the only BLACKPINK member to not release solo music, but Jisoo admits that she's not ready to do music outside of the group! "I'm not sure how much I want to go solo yet," she says. The reason she's uncertain about making music on her own is that she doesn't know what genre she wants to do or what sound her fans want to hear from her. "I love different bands and rock music. So, I'm still tilting my head in confusion," she reveals. "I'm not sure what will happen with my solo plans this year." We think fans would be happy to hear any genre of music you try, Jisoo!

FALSE

IS MADELYN OVERWHELMED BY HER FANS?

Madelyn Cline is learning that sudden fame is a lot to take in! Because the first two seasons of Outer Banks came out during lockdown, the actress didn't experience meeting fans or getting recognized in the street. But, now that there's a new season and she's out and about, the change has been overwhelming! "I consider myself to be a very private person," she spills. "Sometimes the lack of anonymity really wigs me out. People think they know you because they know your character, when in reality, they're two different people." While she loves getting to know her fans, she also focuses on keeping a balance between her celebrity life and her normal life, and that includes her social media! "It's so nice to just leave my phone somewhere for a few hours," she says. "But [social media is] also such a wonderful tool and I'm so thankful for it."

JENNA on Jenna!

Get to know the star in her own words!

FIRST CONCERT:

My first concert was a Fergie concert — when I was six years old, I was obsessed with Fergie.

WORST HABITS:

I'm always playing with my hair and I always have my hands on my face, which is awful, don't do that.

BIGGEST INSECURITY:

There was a girl who I was "friends" with who told me that I had gorilla arms. It's what she would call them because I just had really long arm hair. To this day, every single day, I shave my arms. If there's even stubble, if there's anything, I get really insecure about it.

MATT BARON/BEI/SHUTTERSTOCK

DREAM PLACE TO LIVE:

I think Italy. I would love to live on a random island off the coast of Italy.

FAVORITE SPORTS TEAM:

Lakers. I grew up in a Laker household.

FAVORITE TV SHOW:

Either The Office or New Girl.

FAVORITE BEAUTY PRODUCT:

Colored Chapstick or a lip liner.

LEAST FAVORITE FOOD/DRINK:

I don't like apple sauce. I despise orange juice — but I would drink a gallon of it before I ever laid a finger on apple juice.

Selena: "MY FRIENDS saved me!"

Meet the crew that keeps Selena smiling!

Selena Gomez has had the same circle of friends for more than 10 years. Her besties — Ashley Cook, Raquelle Stevens and Courtney Lopez — aren't popstars who go to fancy parties or actors who get spotted by the paparazzi. Instead, they're a group of normal, like-minded young women who support each other through the good times and the bad. And their friendship is one of the most important parts of Selena's life.

Selena met Ashley in 2006 and Raquelle and Courtney in 2011, and since getting together, they have been inseparable. While it might seem like having one friend in your crew who is an international superstar would make things weird, what Selena loves most about her girls is that they never treat her any differently. "[They are] people who have substance, who live normal lives and have priorities and responsibilities that I might not have," Selena shares. "I have different sets of responsibilities, and it's so wonderful and so important to be able to pick up the phone and call someone who you respect, that you honor their opinion and that aren't just going to tell you the things you want to hear."

"THEY WILL BE HONEST WITH ME!"

When Selena is having a bad day and needs advice, it means a lot for her to have Ashley, Raquelle and Courtney around because they know the real Selena, and they can be upfront with her. "I think that's a huge part of why I am close to [them], because [they] are the people that will be honest and who will be there," Selena says. "If I make a mistake or I feel like I'm going down a wrong path mentally, it's really important for me to call someone that I know and trust."

Surrounding herself with normal, non-celebrity friends also means that Selena gets to avoid her number-one friendship dealbreaker: someone with a big ego. "I can't deal with an egotistical person," she reveals. "I just can't. I have zero patience. We are all the same people."

For Selena, there is no better feeling than knowing she has friends who will be by her side for life. "I think what I've learned over my journey [is that they] have been my friends for over a decade now, and I have to say that my friendships really did save me in a huge way," Selena smiles. And even in the most trying times in their lives, Selena, Ashley, Raquelle and Courtney will stick together and help each other through it all. "I think we got so close and all we had was each other, and that was enough for me," she says. "That's when I realized, 'Oh, life is a lot, you know,' and you have to have the people that you live it with be good for you."

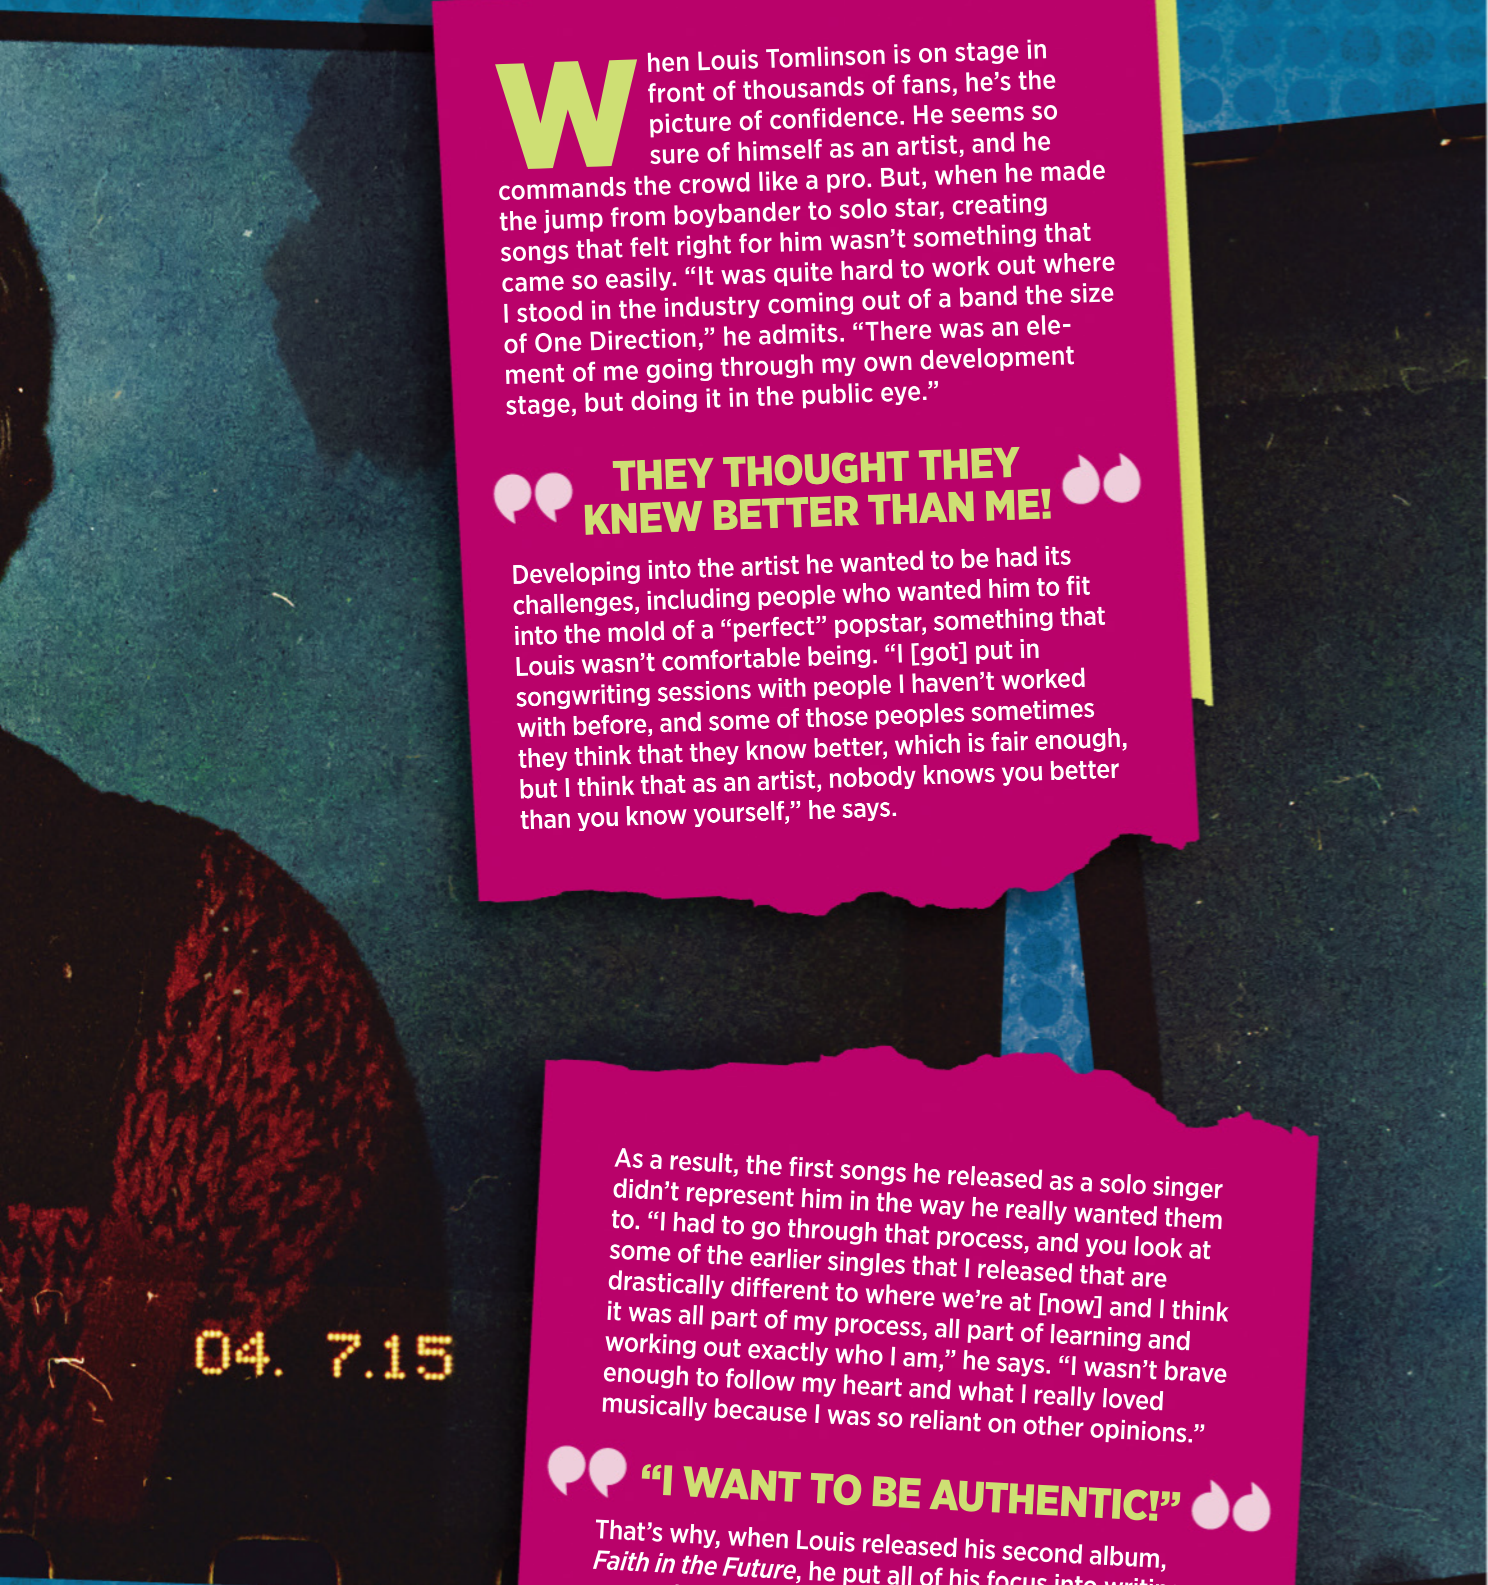
LOUIS: "I had to LEARN WHO I AM!"

The singer took time to finally become the artist he was destined to be!



When Louis Tomlinson is on stage in front of thousands of fans, he's the picture of confidence. He seems so sure of himself as an artist, and he commands the crowd like a pro. But, when he made the jump from boybander to solo star, creating songs that felt right for him wasn't something that came so easily. "It was quite hard to work out where I stood in the industry coming out of a band the size of One Direction," he admits. "There was an element of me going through my own development stage, but doing it in the public eye."

THEY THOUGHT THEY KNEW BETTER THAN ME!

Developing into the artist he wanted to be had its challenges, including people who wanted him to fit into the mold of a "perfect" popstar, something that Louis wasn't comfortable being. "I [got] put in songwriting sessions with people I haven't worked with before, and some of those peoples sometimes they think that they know better, which is fair enough, but I think that as an artist, nobody knows you better than you know yourself," he says.

As a result, the first songs he released as a solo singer didn't represent him in the way he really wanted them to. "I had to go through that process, and you look at some of the earlier singles that I released that are drastically different to where we're at [now] and I think it was all part of my process, all part of learning and working out exactly who I am," he says. "I wasn't brave enough to follow my heart and what I really loved musically because I was so reliant on other opinions."

"I WANT TO BE AUTHENTIC!"

That's why, when Louis released his second album, Faith in the Future, he put all of his focus into writing songs that were true to his heart. "It's been important for me to just make my music as authentic as possible," he shares. "Sometimes, following trends, you lose a bit of that authenticity." And his insistence on being his true self paid off, with an album that perfectly shows his personality! "I think where I've got to on this record, I feel really, really proud of, and it's definitely songs that I think define me better as an artist," he says.

PROM TALK WITH THE CAST OF PROM PACT!

We chatted with Peyton Elizabeth Lee, Milo Manheim and Blake Draper about their new movie, hitting Disney Channel March 30 and Disney+ March 31!

MILO

Mandy goes all out on her 1980s promposal!

J-14: Hey guys! We're so excited about the movie! What do you love the most about your characters?

Peyton Elizabeth Lee: My favorite thing about Mandy is her ambition. I think it's very admirable.

Milo Manheim: For Ben, I like the fact that he is a super-loyal friend, as simple as that. I love that about him.

Blake Draper: My favorite thing about Graham is his confidence.

J-14: In the movie, Mandy isn't sold on the whole idea of a promposal. What do you guys think? Is it cringey or cute?

PEL: I think it's a combination of both. Like, it's cringey, but then it's also fun. If you can get over the cringiness of it and just have fun with it, it's great. I would be nervous doing it myself!

MM: I like the more personal ones. At my school, one year, my friend got me a pizza and in pepperoni it said, "Prom?" And I was like, "You know me." Of course I said yes. So, I love things like that.

BD: I think it's sweet! To go through all of that time and effort for someone and to know that they're always gonna have that experience for the rest of their life, there's something really sweet about that.

J-14: In the movie, characters prompose using inspiration from different '80s movies and videos. If you had to pick any movie to inspire your promposal, which would you pick?

PEL: I would dress us a Zed from Zombies and dye my hair green. I'd call up my friend [Milo], he knows the movie pretty well.

MM: I'm gonna take my inspiration from Prom Pact and I'm gonna do the half Risky Business, half One Direction — that looked so fun.

BD: I would do the Heath Ledger song and dance scene from 10 Things I Hate About You.

J-14: What were your own experiences of prom? Do you have a favorite memory?

PEL: I didn't go to prom in high school, I was actually shooting Prom Pact when prom at my high school was happening. But Disney throws a prom for all the teenagers who can't go to real prom, so all of my prom memories are Disney prom. Milo and I actually met at Disney prom!

MM: They had good themes like Emerald Ball! I went to two proms at my school, but my best prom memory was doing this movie because that prom was amazing.

BD: We don't really have prom in Australia. So my best prom memory was working with these two on the set of Prom Pact!

Taylor's life advice: "LEARN TO LIVE ALONGSIDE CRINGE!"

Have you ever looked at old photos or watched old videos of yourself and felt completely embarrassed by your hairstyle, your voice or any other little thing? We've all felt that way. Describing our past selves as "cringe" or "cringey" has become the norm, and being labeled as such is no compliment. But Taylor Swift thinks we should flip the script on that — she's making a case for letting that shame go!

"CRINGE IS UNAVOIDABLE"

Even though being embarrassed is uncomfortable, it's not the end of the world. Spending all your time worrying about how your choices might embarrass you later is no way to live. "Learn to live alongside cringe," Taylor suggests. "No matter how hard you try to avoid being cringe, you will look back on your life and cringe retrospectively. Cringe is unavoidable over a lifetime." Because trends come and go, what's cool now is likely not going to be cool five or 10 years from now. "Even the term 'cringe' might someday be deemed 'cringe,'" Taylor jokes.

"I WAS HAVING FUN"

For those of you still thinking you've never had a cringeworthy moment, Taylor regrets to inform you that probably isn't the case. "I promise you, you're probably doing or wearing something right now that you will look back on later and find revolting and hilarious," she smiles. "You can't avoid it, so don't try to." She's speaking from experience because she's

> "Even the term 'cringe' might someday be deemed 'cringe.'" been there. "I had a phase where, for the entirety of 2012, I dressed like a 1950s housewife," she admits. "But you know what? I was having fun. Trends and phases are fun. Looking back and laughing is fun."
> —TAYLOR

"NEVER BE ASHAMED OF TRYING"

The downside of a culture that labels many things "cringe" is that it can make people apprehensive about doing those fun things — taking a fashion risk or showing enthusiasm for something that isn't deemed cool. Instead, it's more socially acceptable to be laid-back and chill, but that's not Taylor's MO. "I'm a big advocate for not hiding your enthusiasm for things," Taylor says. "It seems to me that there is a false stigma around eagerness. This outlook perpetuates the idea that it's not cool to 'want it.'"

But showing people that you care about things — even "cringey" things — is nothing to be ashamed of. In fact, hiding those parts of yourself is something you're likely to regret down the road. "Never be ashamed of trying," Taylor says. "The people who wanted it the least were the ones I wanted to date and be friends with in high school. The people who want it most are the people I now hire to work for my company." Wise words as always, Tay!

EVERY DAY IS SATURDAY FOR DANIELLE!

On Saturdays, Danielle Jalade plays Paris, a girl who has grown up in her local skating rink. As the leader of the skate crew, We-B-Girlz, Paris has what it takes to makes them the top skate crew. We talked to Danielle all about the new show, streaming on Disney+ March 24.

J-14: Hi Danielle! What can you tell us about your character, Paris?

Danielle Jalade: Paris is an outgoing, adventurous skater with a big heart and big ideas. She is very loyal and will do anything for the people she loves.

J-14: What was the training like to play a character who has been skating for most of her life?

DJ: Training was really fun, but challenging. I had to learn tricks and stunts in a short amount of time and look like a pro, but the learning process was fun and now I can do everything with ease.

J-14: Were you a skater before you were cast?

DJ: I couldn't really do any cool tricks like I can now, but I did know how to do the basics.

J-14: Can you share a funny moment or blooper that happened while you were filming?

DJ: One funny moment that happened while filming was when I had to hold popcorn in my hand and did a little too much with the hand motions while talking and it went everywhere. There was popcorn in everyone's hair and we couldn't stop laughing!

J-14: What's one scene from the show that you're really excited for people to see?

DJ: It's hard to pick just one scene, so, I would say I cannot wait for everyone to see all the skate battle scenes we have. I loved being able to battle different teams and all of the choreography coming together.

J-14: What does it mean to you to have your own Disney series?

DJ: Growing up, I always loved Disney Channel and I always wanted to be a part of it so having my own Disney show is a dream come true.

J-14: Back then, what was your favorite Disney Channel show and movie?

DJ: I really loved Shake It Up and Let It Shine. I liked how they danced in Shake It Up because I am a hip hop dancer. I also loved Coco Jones in Let It Shine, so much so that I memorized all her singing parts!

J-14: Why do you think J-14 readers are going to love Saturdays?

DJ: I think J-14 readers will love Saturdays because we highlight skate culture and shed light on real-life situations in a comfortable, yet funny way.

CHLOE'S READY TO SLAY DRAGONS!

Chloe Coleman plays Kira in Dungeons & Dragons: Honor Among Thieves, the fantasy adventure coming to theaters March 31. She spilled all about her new role!

J-14: Hi Chloe! The Dungeons & Dragons world is so fantastical. What was it like getting to work in that environment?

Chloe Coleman: Fantasy genres are my favorite, and the Dungeons & Dragons world is endless and so exciting! The creatures, the wardrobe, the sets all took my breath away … you get to see things you've never seen before, and obviously things that don't exist in the real world.

J-14: Did you get to do any cool stunts?

CC: There was a fair amount of horse work. One time, we had to run and jump on a horse and wagon as it was speeding away. We filmed it several times and Chris Pine and I were running, and the camera was right in our face as we had to leap up on the wagon at high speed. I get really excited about stunts and it was really fun!

ASHER AND JACK ARE BACK WITH THE SHAZAMILY!

Fury of the Gods hits theaters March 17!

In Shazam! Fury of the Gods, Asher Angel and Jack Dylan Grazer return as brothers-turned-superheroes, Billy Batson and Freddy Freeman. We caught up with the duo to learn more about the flick!

J-14: Hey guys! It has been four years since we first met your characters in Shazam! How have they changed since we last saw them?

Asher Angel: Billy has evolved a lot since the last time the world saw him. He's been living his best life being a superhero and being with his foster family. As he approaches 18, he questions the strength of his new relationships and what the future holds for him.

Jack Dylan Grazer: Freddy is now 17, whereas in the first film he's only 14. A lot within him has changed and he's learned a lot more about his capabilities as not only a superhero, but as a human-growth-hormone-fueled blossoming young man who walks with a crutch and geeks out over every artifact of superhero-dom.

J-14: The Shazamily is up against the Daughters of Atlas in this one. Hypothetically, if you had to pick someone in your actual family to team up with to fight the Daughters of Atlas, who would you pick?

AA: Why pick just one? I would choose [my siblings] Avi and London. The three of us have a great relationship that we would use to dominate the Daughters of Atlas. I mean, if we had magic. We would have to have magic…

JDG: I would pick my dog, Jingles. He's a Jack Russell Terrier with an Australian accent with the tenor depth of Jason Statham. He's also got a knack for Greek mythology, which is coincidental.

MEET NO LONELY HEARTS!

After a nationwide talent search, Oliver, Brian, Alex, Dylan and Aidan were chosen to join No Lonely Hearts, a new obsession-worthy boyband! As their band name suggests, the guys are hoping to connect with their fans (called Heartbeats) so that no one ever feels lonely. "We want to make music that makes you feel some type of way, and that lets you know you're not alone," Brian tells us. "So whether it's a party song or a love song or a ballad, we just want to be here for whoever's listening." And their loyal fans are giving that love right back, showing up while NLH tours the US. "It's unbelievable because on social media, you see fan comments and it's like, okay, it might be a bot," Alex shares. "And then once you actually see the real reactions in person, it's so beautiful!"

JALYN AND AMIR PLAY BASKETBALL LEGENDS!

In The Crossover, Jalyn Hall and Amir O'Neil play brothers and basketball phenoms. We talked to the guys about life on and off the court on their new Disney+ series, streaming April 5.

J-14: Hi Jalyn and Amir! In the show, you have impressive basketball skills. Did you have to train before filming?

Amir O'Niel: We did, and it was intense. We practiced almost every day, and it was tough sometimes. I had never really played basketball, outside of hooping in the driveway of my house, so training was a new experience for me and one I enjoyed.

Jalyn Hall: Yes! We did have to train, and it was lots of fun. I've always enjoyed basketball and I knew the fundamentals of the game and could hold my own, but my skills definitely were not as sharp as they are now. During the training period, Amir and I really got to fall in love with the sport, and we have gotten better than we ever thought possible.

J-14: We have to ask — who is the better baller?

AO: I knew this question was coming! Jalyn and I both have our own strengths when it comes to basketball. I would say he's a better ball-handler and I'm a better shooter.

JH: I will say, in terms of shooting in general, Amir is extremely consistent. There have been so many times he lines up to take a shot, and I've said, "Man, that's not going in," and he sinks it! When it comes to driving, dribbling and finishing at the rim, that's much more of my forte. We both have our strong suits, and we've never really considered who's better because we've gone up against each other so many times, and we both have won and lost just the same. Maybe one of these days, we'll settle the tie once and for all!

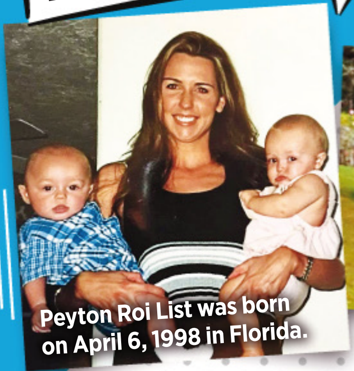
FOLLOW THEIR PATH TO FAME!

PEYTON'S MOM HELPED HER GET INTO ACTING!



Peyton Roi List was born on April 6, 1998 in Florida.

One of her first big roles was as Holly Hills in 2011's Diary of a Wimpy Kid!

She played her most iconic role, Emma Ross, on Jessie and Bunk'd from 2011 to 2018.

Today

Peyton has her mom and brother to thank for the start of her career! "I have a twin brother and he got discovered when we were kids," Peyton remembers. "My mom took him in [to audition] and she brought me along and said, 'Well, my daughter is the one who kind of has more of an interest so you have to sign them both to the agency.'" From there, Peyton started booking small parts, until she landed her role on Jessie. Now, Peyton is as busy as ever, with a starring role on Cobra Kai, and a brand-new series, School Spirits. In it, she plays a girl stuck in the high school afterlife, trying to discover the truth of her mysterious disappearance. It's one of her favorite projects to date! "I was mind blown every day for the amount of respect I have for [the cast]," she shares. "I got so lucky, and I can't wait for the show to drop!"

MILEY WANTS TO BRING BACK HANNAH MONTANA!

Miley was born Destiny Hope Cyrus on November 23, 1992 in Franklin, Tennessee.

Her major acting debut came in 2006, with the premiere of Hannah Montana.

Today

The original Disney Channel queen hopes to do a Hannah Montana reboot one day! "I'd love to do a series again," she reveals. "She needs a big makeover because she's kinda stuck in 2008, so we'll need to go shopping with Miss Montana." In the meantime, Miley is focused on her music career, and her new album, Endless Summer Vacation. How'd she pick that title? "This is kind of my idea of living with my head in the clouds of my own fantasy and the world that I want to create," Miley explains.

WATCH FOR THESE RISING STARS!

NEWJEANS IS TAKING OVER THE K-POP WORLD!

Meet NewJeans, the latest girl group to debut from Big Hit Entertainment — the same record label that brought you BTS! The group has five members: Minji, Hyein, Hanni, Danielle and Haerin. They first made a splash in the US with their single, "Ditto," which made the Billboard Hot 100 chart only six months after their debut. And if you're wondering about their name, well, we'll let them explain! "NewJeans means we will become an icon of this era, like jeans that you can't get enough of wearing," they say.

EVERYONE CAN RELATE TO ABBY'S NEW ROLE!

You may recognize Abby Ryder Fortson for her role as Ant-Man's daughter, Cassie Lang, in the Ant-Man movie series. Now, she's taking the lead as Margaret in the movie Are You There God? It's Me, Margaret. "The thing that really drew me to the project was the feeling that we can all connect to the story of Margaret because we're all going through the time in our lives where we're figuring things out," she spills. "As soon as I read it, I knew it was the kind of project I wanted to be a part of." Abby's connection to Margaret is what made the movie so special to her, and it's what she hopes will make it special to you, too! "We're both very curious, smart people and I'm figuring things about myself every day," she says. "It's everything that every teenager goes through, so we all are pretty similar to her."

NICK HAS SCHOOL SPIRIT!

You can catch Nick Pugliese alongside Peyton List and Milo Maheim on School Spirits! He plays Charley in the haunting series, and it's his first starring role on a TV series. The opportunity to join the cast was a massive moment in Nick's career. "For the first time in my life, [I was] speechless," he said of getting the gig!

SEASON TWO OF DOOGIE KAMEĀLOHA, M.D. HITS DISNEY+ MARCH 31!

BIG CHANGES

Lahela (Peyton Elizabeth Lee) is in for a year of major decisions! With a new guy in town, Nico, played by Milo Manheim, a shift in her relationship with Walter (Alex Aiono) and career choices on the horizon, she'll need the help of her family and friends to get her through it all. "[I'm] crazy proud of this show and all the incredible people who made it," Peyton says.

THE NEW KID

Milo plays a new patient at the hospital. "This is the first time we meet Nico and I don't think I've ever had a cooler character introduction!" he tells us. "My favorite thing about Nico is how fearless he is. Always living life on the edge."

DISNEY/HARPER SMITH; DISNEY/ZACK DOUGAN (4)

BEACH BLUES

Things are rocky with Lahela and Walter. "Peyton and I always have the most fun filming on the beach," Alex shares. "I mean, it's the best part of shooting in Hawaii! While this scene is of Walter and Lahela happily reuniting, there might be more scenes on the beach this season that aren't as happy…"

BESTIE FUN

"I think Peyton and I had the same reaction as Lahela and Steph had when a bunch of string bikinis were thrown at us for this scene," Emma Meisel says of this moment.

FATHER-SON BONDING

The Kameāloha boys are back for more laughs. "As Benny and Kai work on the old surf wagon, Brian Patrick presents his new look, 'Indie Kid,'" Matthew Sato (Kai) explains. "Throughout the episode, BP tries many new looks and this was definitely my favorite. Jason Scott Lee (Benny) and I had fun judging the different looks on set."

KJ made a bold choice while auditioning for the part of Archie — he played everyone a song! "It was scripted in the pilot that [Archie] likes to write music," he remembers. "I told them I was going to play them a song before I did the scene. They didn't really have a choice and I just did it!"

LILI REINHART

Lili's Riverdale experience had a rocky start. When she sent in an audition tape, she was rejected! "I was told no," she spills. "I didn't get the role." Determined, she moved to California and auditioned for Betty again. "I made it past the first round, second round, third round and then did my test and I got the role."

Camila kicked off her audition a little bit frazzled! "I was 30 minutes late for the audition and I was, like, the very-last person that they were seeing and I managed to squeeze in an audition," she recalls. "My hair was frizzy [because] it was a rainy day." After a few more call back auditions, she ended up getting the gig!

COLE SPROUSE

Cole was working at an archaeology lab when he got a call from his manager begging him to audition for the part of ... Archie! However, he felt he was a better fit for Jughead. "I said, 'This is a little bit more my style,'" he shares. "So, I figured, 'Okay, this could be fun.'"

MADELAINE PETSCH

Madelaine's audition was shockingly effortless. "I went in and, right when I did the first scene, they all stood up and said, 'She's got the role!'" She spills. When she asked the creators of the show why they liked her so much, they said it was because she was scary and cool at the same time!

25 WAYS TO romanticize YOUR LIFE!

Here's how to turn your everyday life from ordinary to extra-special!

1 Use themed plates from the party store when you need a pick-me-up.

2 Have a picnic with your friends with a cute blanket and yummy sandwiches.

3 Do a puzzle instead of turning on the TV.

4 Slice up your favorite fruits and add them to your water bottle.

5 Make a fancy breakfast. Use a cookie cutter on your piece of toast or add seasoning to your eggs.

6 Buy yourself a bouquet of flowers and keep them in a spot you'll look at often.

7 Make a playlist of your favorite songs to listen to when you're driving or walking around.

8 Create a vision board for your future happiness.

9 Sit down to enjoy a cup of coffee or tea with no distractions.

10 Take a moment to dance it out when you need to.

11 Plan outfits inspired by your favorite characters using clothes you have in your closet.

12 Add a pop of color to your bedroom with a new pillow or blanket.

13 Take a nice warm bath using bubble bath, bath salts or even flower petals.

14 When you're out running errands, turn down a different street to explore someplace new.

15 Create a scrapbook or photo album of your favorite memories.

16 Use a reed diffuser or candle to add a nice scent to your surroundings.

17 Read a book while wrapped up in a cozy blanket.

18 Hang eucalyptus in your shower to create a spa-like atmosphere.

19 Wear luxurious pajamas. Add feather boa trim to the arms and legs of silk pajamas.

20 Handwrite a letter to a family member or friend and send it in the mail.

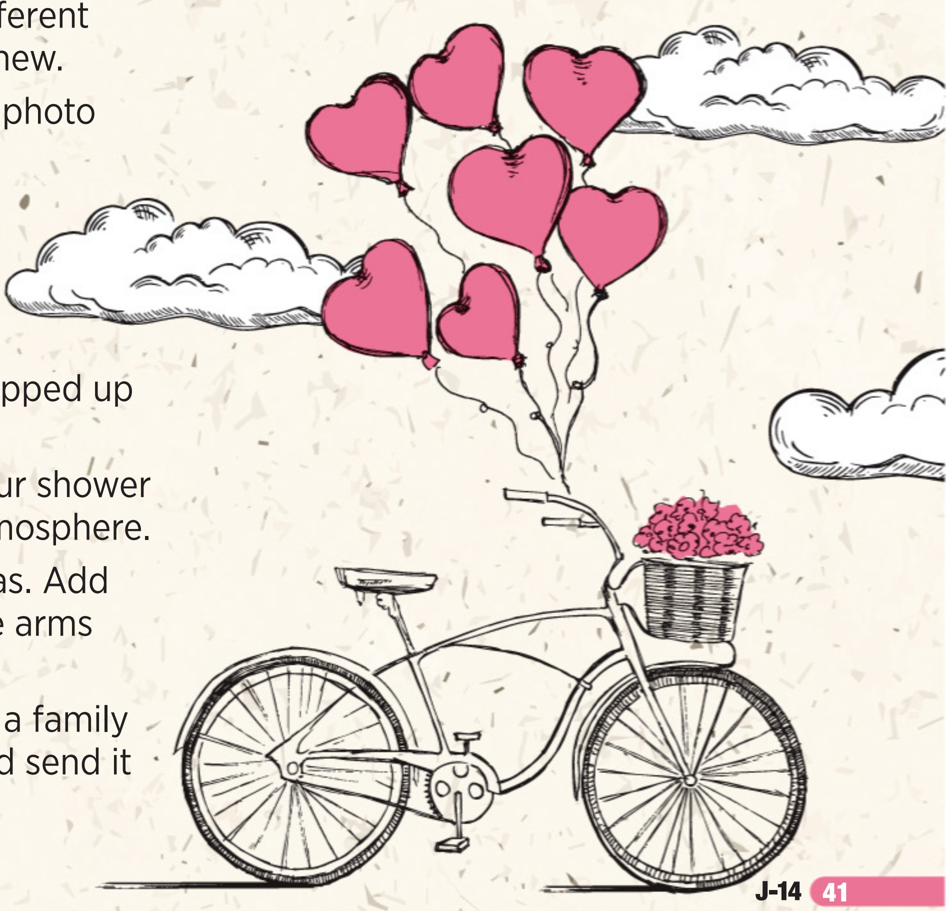
21 Take a nature walk and really pay attention to the beauty around you.

22 Bake a cake and decorate it with colorful icing and sprinkles. Write a fun saying on it.

23 Learn a new hobby, such as knitting or jam making.

24 Start a gratitude journal where you write down the things you appreciated each week.

25 Dress up in your favorite fancy outfit just because.



ACHIEVE YOUR GOALS like Millie Bobby Brown!

The Stranger Things star will inspire you!

Find your passion

In order to become successful, Millie Bobby Brown knows you need to be passionate about your dreams. "It has to come from within," she says. "It has to be real, authentic. As long as you have those three main factors, you're going to find your passion. It can be anything and nothing is ridiculous these days. You can actually be anything you like."

Don't let setbacks get you down

Millie hasn't landed every role she's auditioned for. "This industry is just full of rejection, 24/7," Millie opens about working in entertainment. "You get far more 'nos' — a lot of 'nos' — before you get a 'yes.' I was auditioning for commercials, for anything, really." In fact, one rejection right before she landed her Stranger Things role almost made her quit acting altogether. "I auditioned for Game of Thrones and I got a 'no' for that," she remembers. "Then that's kind of when I was like, 'Oh, this is really difficult,' because I guess I really wanted that role."

Be open to trying new things

"One of my last goes at [auditioning] was this Netflix show called Montauk," Millie smiles. "I auditioned and then, like, two months later they got back to us and said, 'We'd love to Skype with you' and then I Skyped with them and the rest is history, of course. We then named the show Stranger Things, but Montauk was definitely the one that really gave me that hope of doing it all."

Soak up everything you can

When Millie's on set, she's paying attention to everything, even when she isn't filming. "One of my favorite things to do is when I'm not on screen, watch the screen — and I learn a lot," she says. "So every project I'm doing right now, it's important because it's life experience and I'm learning new things just about me as a person, but also me as a character."

Don't listen to others too much

When you're working towards having a career like Millie's, you're going to be surrounded by people who are offering advice about everything. That's great — except when they're advising you to be someone you're not. "Understand that the only person you can hold on to is yourself, and don't lose yourself in that," Millie recommends. "Because it's so easy to in this industry, especially at a young age."

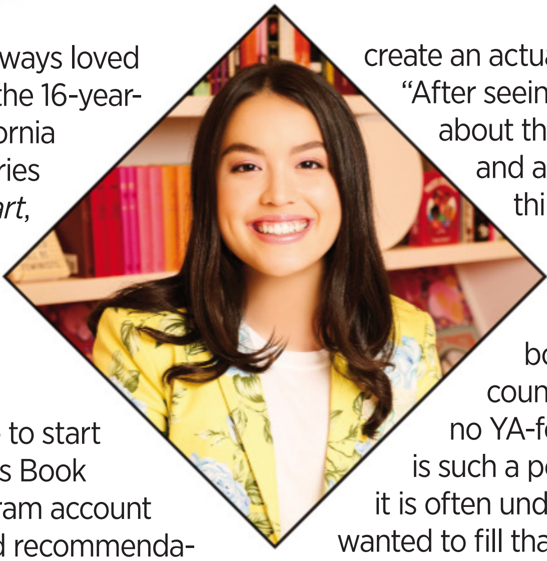
REAL GIRL ANNABELLE:

"I OPENED A YA bookshop!"

Annabelle Chang has always loved reading. Growing up, the 16-year-old Los Angeles, California native would devour book series like Percy Jackson and Inkheart, always on the hunt for new books to discover. As she got older, she fell in love with young adult (YA) books. And during quarantine, she decided to use her downtime to start a book club called Annabelle's Book Club LA. "I created an Instagram account to share YA book reviews and recommendations," Annabelle tells J-14. "After receiving such a positive response to the stories I featured, I launched a blog, where I continued to share book recommendations and reviews, as well as publish my interviews with YA authors, bookstore owners and other entrepreneurs in the book world."



With a growing following, Annabelle began to turn her small hobby into a business — selling books and merch on her site, and hosting YA pop-up events in her town. That's when the idea to create an actual bookstore first came to her. "After seeing how excited people were about the YA books I was selling online and at pop-up events, I started to think about creating a store where my book curation would be more permanent," she explains. "As I researched bookstores in L.A. and across the country, I realized that there were no YA-focused ones. Even though YA is such a popular genre, I have found that it is often underrepresented in bookstores. I wanted to fill that gap in the market."

In November of 2022, Annabelle's vision came to life and Annabelle's Book Club LA officially opened its doors, with Annabelle as the founder. Everything from the books for sale to the smallest decor details was decided on by her. "I knew from the get-go that I wanted the space to be bright and full of color, especially pink!" she shares. "I've always dreamed of having a reading nook and library ladders, so I'm thrilled that we were able to incorporate those fun features."

"IT'S A FUN CHALLENGE!"

Annabelle quickly learned that having a store to look after when you're a teenager isn't easy work. She goes to an online high school that allows her to fit school and time at the store into her schedule. When she's not doing school work, she's either working in the store, or at home interviewing authors, learning about upcoming book releases and ordering stock for the store. "Day-to-day, it can be difficult to balance short-term needs like restocking inventory, with less immediate but also important tasks like scheduling future store and pop-up events," Annabelle explains. "However, it has all been a fun challenge that has already taught me so much about running a small business."

"I SPOTLIGHT UNDERREPRESENTED VOICES!"

Through her business, Annabelle uses her skills of spotting noteworthy YA books she knows her customers will enjoy. "I've really loved being able to highlight historically underrepresented voices in YA and celebrate all types of stories through my curation," she shares. Plus, creating a business based off of something she's so passionate about means that Annabelle is constantly surrounded by people of all walks of life who love the same thing she loves. "I have encountered so many wonderful people that I feel lucky to have met and now call my friends," she says. "My new friends are people of all ages – everyone from toddlers to grandparents!"

Annabelle has big hopes for the future of her business, and they all come down to helping more and more people fall in love with the genre she loves. "I hope that Annabelle's Book Club LA will become a place where everyone – adults, teenagers and kids — can go to find new, interesting books and connect with other book lovers," she smiles. "In a dream world, I'd love to see Annabelle's Book Club LA expand to other cities and perhaps even launch my own imprint."

LIFE'S BIG questions!

J-14 HAS THE ANSWERS TO YOUR MOST BURNING QUESTIONS AND PERSONAL DILEMMAS!

He put our relationship on hold!

Q: My crush and I talk a ton. He has invited me over to his place a lot, and he admitted to flirting with me when I called him out on it. A few weeks ago, I told him I liked him. He said he's happy I told him how I felt, but that he doesn't know how he feels yet, and that it's definitely not a no. Help! — Rae, 14

On Ginny & Georgia, Ginny and Marcus' relationship is rocky!

My best friend doesn't have time for us anymore!

Q: My best friend, Sara, has karate, cooking and dancing after school, and on weekends, she says she can't hang out because she has family stuff. We barely see each other at school and it makes me feel so lonely! It's like we are drifting apart. Help! — Jenna, 12

A: We're sorry you're going through this, Jenna. Why not start with making sure everything is okay? You can ask your friend something like, "Our friendship is okay, right?" All besties go through bumps in their friendship, so don't be discouraged. As far as not having enough time to hang out, one great option is to do an after-school activity together! You could join one of hers or come up with something new. It doesn't have to be a big thing, it could be as simple as picking a day of the week to watch a show you both like together. Friendships are about putting in the effort to spend time together, and they're so worth it!

I'm nervous about going through a break up!

Q: I have a huge crush on this boy and I want to ask him out. The only problem is that I'm scared that if we start dating, it won't last! I'm nervous he'll want to break up at some point. What should I do? — Juliana, 13

A: We feel where you're coming from, Juliana! While we wish there was some magical answer to cure all of your dating concerns, the honest answer is that breaking up is a part of dating. However, you can't let the fear of a breakup keep you from being with someone who makes you happy. We think you should go for it, after all, you have a huge crush! Don't worry about a potential breakup while you're together — just live in the moment. And, if things do come to an end one day, surround yourself with friends. It's okay to feel sad, but remember that your heart will heal in time. When it does, you'll know more about what you like and don't like in a guy, and, more importantly, you'll know yourself better, too!

A: Hey Rae — boys can be so wishy-washy with their emotions that it sometimes feels like they're impossible to understand! We think that in this case, the decision is in your hands: Is the relationship worth holding out and waiting to see if he gets a more firm grasp on his feelings for you or is it better to tell him you'd like to stay strictly in the friend zone. If you want wait to see if he likes you, too, try to keep things low-pressure. Continue having fun together just like you have been. Giving him a timeline or repeatedly asking if he's made up his mind will just end up making you both unhappy. However, if weeks go by and he hasn't brought up your conversation, it's a good sign that he isn't ready to date. Now, if you decide that you want to be just friends, it's probably time to ease up on the flirting. If you don't, you'll end up right back where you started. Good luck!

I don't know what I want to do after high school!

Q All of my friends seem to know what they want to do after school and I have no clue what I want. I'm so scared to go through life and regret all my decisions when I'm old. What do I do? – Anonymous

A The future is intimidating for just about every high school student — even the ones who appear to have their entire lives planned out. There are so many different options, and it feels like whichever one you make will impact your life forever. We think the first thing you should do is talk about your concerns with people you trust. Ask them about their post-high school experiences. Talking things out helps to relieve stress and anxiety. Next up, instead of thinking about your future with fear, try to think of it with some excitement! The end of high school is a great time to think of dreams you want to achieve. List out the things you'd like to do — whether it's massive like graduating from college or buying a car, or smaller like learning a subject you never learned in school. Once you have your list, start to break down ways you can achieve those goals. And remember this: No plan goes exactly how you first envisioned it, and mistakes are part of every journey. You'll never discover what you want to do until you give things a try!

MARNI GROSSMAN/NETFLIX

My crush won't talk to me in school!

Q: I've had this crush on a boy since middle school, and we talk, but he doesn't associate with me in school. He tells me things like that I look beautiful after school, but nothing during. Is he playing with my feelings? — Anastasia, 17

A: Your crush has put you in a tricky situation, Anastasia! Sure, he's flirting with you outside of school, but it's not okay that he's keeping it a secret. If he was interested in things moving into girlfriend/boyfriend territory right now, he'd be just as affectionate to you inside of school as he is outside of school. Because of that, we think it might be time to distance yourself from this boy and focus on friends and new crushes. We know it's rough to get over a crush you've had for a long time, and if you feel like you two have a close enough friendship, it's worth talking to him about it and asking where the two of you stand in his eyes. You deserve someone who is always kind to you, not just in private!

TOOLS of the

Powder Brush (1)

If you want to set your foundation with a translucent powder, a powder brush is the tool for you. They come in a variety of sizes, but are usually larger to cover larger areas of your face at a time. Dip one into a powder of your choice, tap off the excess, then dust it over any areas you want to set.

Contour Brush (2)

A contour brush is shaped in a way to perfectly fit in the contours of your face, specifically your forehead, hollows of your cheeks and jawline. You can use a contour powder or a bronzer to sculpt out your contours using one of these.

Blush Brush (3)

A blush brush is intended to be used with powder blushes (cream blushes apply better with your fingers!) and comes in a variety of shapes and densities. The more dense the bristles are, the more intense the pigment will appear on your cheeks, so we recommend a fluffier brush.

Foundation Brush (4)

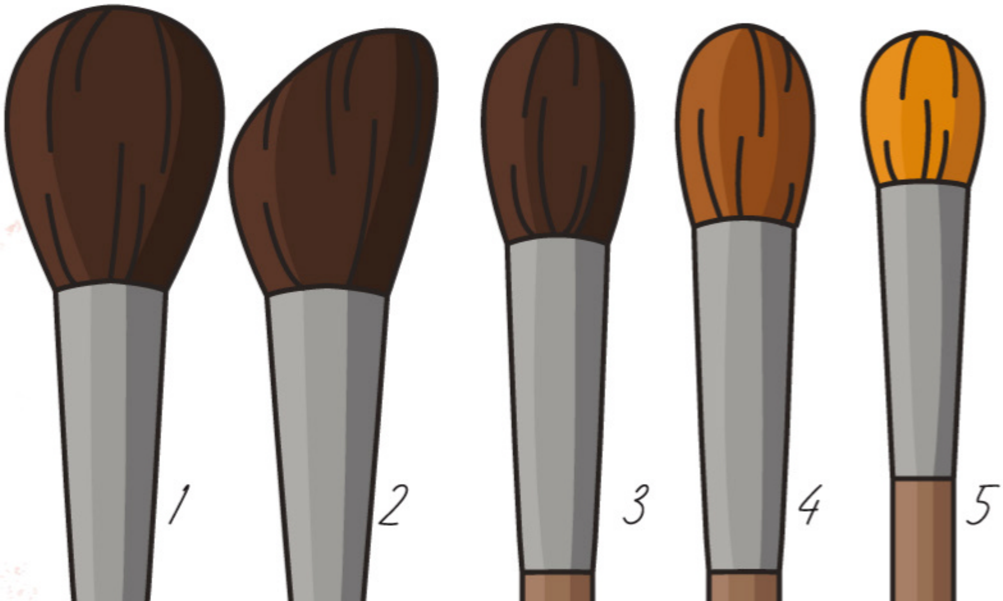
The foundation brush is an option for applying liquid foundation. It tends to give a fuller coverage than a blending sponge because it soaks up less product. You can apply a pump of foundation onto your face, the brush, or the back of your hand, then, starting from the center of your face, blend outward in even motions.

Concealer Brush (5)

Your concealer brush is essentially a mini foundation brush, and its function is to precisely place concealer on spots the foundation brush is too large for. For example, under your eyes, down the center of your nose or on any acne you're trying to conceal.

Flat Eyeshadow Brush (6)

This style of brush is ideal for packing product onto your eyelids. If you want a bold, solid pop of color on your lids, this is the brush to go for.



TRADE!

Brush up on all the beauty tools you need to know!

Fluffy Blending Brush (7)

Great for buffing out any harsh lines your eyeshadow may create, the fluffy blending brush is going to give you a light wash of color. You can use it clean to blend out existing shadow or with a new shade to blend. Hold it towards the bottom end for a gentler hand.

Fan Brush (8)

This brush is perfect for adding highlighter to your cheekbones. Simply swipe it from side to side in the area you want the highlighter to go.

Smudge Brush (9)

Use this brush if you want a quick smoky eye. Dip it into your color of choice, then apply where you would apply you eyeliner. Keep in mind, this is meant to look a little messy and not precise.

Mascara Wand (10)

This spoolie is perfect for your lashes and your brows. For lashes, use it to brush out any clumpy bits. For brows, brush in an upward motion to shape them.

Eyebrow Brush (11)

If you're using brow powder or brow gel, you'll need a brush like this. Intended to make short, hair-like strokes that blend in with your brows, the eyebrow brush has a slanted end that makes it easier to work with.

SHELBY SIMMONS SHARES THE SNEAKY THING SHE DID ON SET!

Don't worry — it didn't get her into trouble! It happened on the day when they were recording a big dance number for Snow Day. They'd film the guys' parts and the girls' parts separately, and usually Shelby would just stand out of the way while the boys were dancing, but not this time. "I snuck around all the camera people, and I went into this tent that was for the directors and the writers to look and see," she remembers. "And I got myself a little hot chocolate and then I just sat there, and I watched." Her little act of rebellion paid off! "There was this amazing woman who just broke everything down for me as it was happening," Shelby smiles. "I was in heaven because they don't usually let us get behind the camera and watch, so it was amazing to get that opportunity. I was kind of fangirling a little bit!"

TYLER POSEY DISHES ON SCOTT AND ALLISON'S *TEEN WOLF FUTURE!

We finally got to see Scott McCall and Allison Argent reunite in Teen Wolf: The Movie and now we want more — so does Tyler Posey! "I'm excited to see them sort of — if we do have more [movies] — go through some really adult things," he reveals. "They're in their mid-30s now, and we only got to see them in their mid-30s for, like, five minutes before everything went [bad]. Then, they got distracted trying to save lives and deal with the new villains." He has an idea for something a little different. "I'm excited to see them handle life as adults," Tyler says. "If we do more from here on out, that would be really interesting to see them do mundane things."

CALLIE HAVERDA TELLS US ABOUT HER FIRST KISS!

Spoiler alert: It was while she was filming That '90s Show! "It was my first kiss, and that was pretty insane," Callie opened up. "But the director, Gail Mancuso, she made us feel very comfortable." Things didn't get awkward around her co-stars either. "With my castmates, we were all very close and it was like the mentality of, 'Oh, we're just acting,'" Callie says. "We all knew that it was work and it's not awkward at all. We're all just friends having a good time. You know, that kind of feeling."

TOMORROW X TOGETHER ON HOW THEIR FANS HELPED THEM WITH A NEW SONG!

If you're a TXT fan, you've probably already heard their recent song "Devil by the Window" and you know that it's the second song they've released fully in English (the first one being "Magic"). "'Devil by the Window' is more tough than 'Magic' because to deliver such delicate emotions in a foreign language isn't the easiest task," Taehyun says. "But the members really did a fantastic job." What inspired them to record a song in English? "I think we can credit that to our experiences during the world tour," he goes on. "We were communicating with our fans and hosting concerts in English. I think we grew a lot from that."

ASHLEY AUFDERHEIDE ON HER HOPES FOR THAT '90S SHOW SEASON TWO!

The cast of That '90s Show is pumped to be coming back to Netflix for season two, and Ashley Aufderheide has a lot of thoughts about what she'd like to see from her character, Gwen. "I feel like Gwen has a lot of different layers to her," Ashley says. "She's very bold, she's a riot girl, rebellious, but I think that comes from somewhere. At the end of the season, you see more of a vulnerable side to her and so I definitely want to explore that more in season two, just peel back more of Gwen's layers." She'd also love to film a lot more Runck family scenes, which we're all for!

LESSONS LEARNED ON THE WOLF PACK SET!

Wolf Pack is the first big show Chloe Rose Robertson and Tyler Lawrence Gray have been a part of. Lucky for them, they've gotten a lot of amazing advice on set from co-star — and total legend — Sarah Michelle Gellar. What lessons has she taught them? "[The importance of] staying kind, staying humble, gracious and just enjoying this whole crazy thing that we do," Chloe smiles. Tyler's learned to appreciate every moment. "It's not about the destination, it's about this ride of where this takes you through your entire life," he says. And Chloe adds: "And the people that surround you during it!"

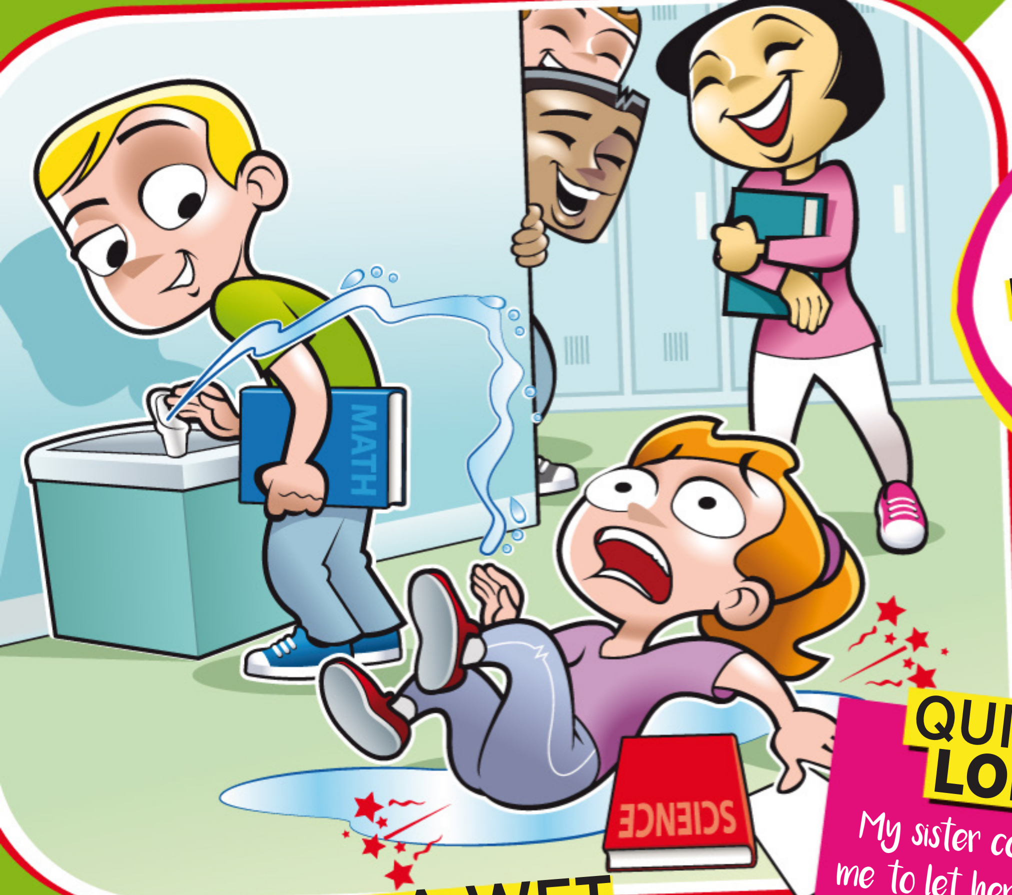
Embarrassing moments!

J-14 RATINGS:

🙍‍♀️ Glad it wasn't us!

🤦‍♀️ New phone, who dis?

🙅‍♀️ You can't sit with us!



I HAD A WET WIPEOUT IN THE SCHOOL HALLWAY!

I was rushing to get to class before the bell rang. As I walked past the water fountains, I should have paid more attention to what was going on around me. Apparently, a boy from the grade above me was playing around and spraying his friends with water from the fountain. I didn't realize that until after I slipped on the huge puddle he'd left on the floor. Since I'd been moving quickly throughout the hall to begin with, it was a pretty epic wipeout. The hallway got so silent right after it happened, but then I heard people starting to laugh. Pretty soon, everyone was cracking up. As if that wasn't embarrassing enough, I had to walk around in wet clothes for the rest of the day! — Chloe, KS

QUICK LOL!

My sister convinced me to let her wax my upper lip. I had a bad reaction that gave me a red rash mustache for weeks!

I HAD A WARDROBE MISHAP AT MY AUNT'S WEDDING!

During my aunt's hour-long wedding ceremony, I really had to go to the bathroom. She's kind of a diva and I knew she would kill me if I left in the middle of the service for any reason, so I waited and went as soon as we got to the reception. Afterwards, I noticed a few people looking at me funny, but I figured they were just trying to figure out if they knew me or not. Like a half hour later, I went to sit down to eat my dinner and felt my butt stick to my seat. My face turned beet red as I realized my dress was tucked into my underwear. I must have done it after using the restroom and somehow didn't notice. I still cringe whenever I think of how many people must have seen my underwear during those 30 minutes! — Savaria, CA

BAILEE BELIEVED HER FRIEND'S RIDICULOUS FIB!

A memorable convo with one of her friends is one of Bailee Madison's most embarrassing moments! "I was on the phone with one of my guy friends, and he goes, 'Bailee, you're so gullible,'" she tells us. "And I kind of am — I believe everything. And he goes, 'Do you know that gullible isn't even a word?'" Bailee didn't really believe him, but she wasn't 100% confident she was right. "I was like, 'No way!' And so I Googled it and was like, 'Alex, you're so crazy. That word is on the internet,'" Bailee says. "He's like, 'Duh!'" And the story doesn't end there! She went to work the next day and told a co-worker about the conversation. "And they were like, 'You know that's a joke that's been around forever, right?'" Bailee laughs. Too funny!

DID YOU KNOW?

Everyone gets embarrassed, but people with social anxiety are especially sensitive to embarrassment.

I ACCIDENTALLY TEXTED MY BF'S MOM!

After I met my boyfriend Ky's mom for the first time, we swapped numbers and I saved her in my phone as "Ky's mom." The next day, I was annoyed when I sent Ky a bunch of what I thought were really cute selfies, and he ignored them for hours. Eventually, I got back a "You look darling, sweetie." That's when I realized I sent them to Ky's mom and not him. Whoops! — Bali, FL

I SCORED A WINNING BASKET FOR THE WRONG TEAM!

I was really anxious about my first-ever basketball game. I spent most of it sitting on the bench, but I got called in when the score was super-close. I desperately wanted to prove myself as I tried to remember all of the plays from practice. I was doing pretty well on defense, but when the ball came to me, I ran down to the other end of the court. I was thinking this was my moment to shine! And I did — I totally made the shot and heard the buzzer go off a few seconds later, signaling that the game was over. I'd just helped my team win the game by one point! Well, that's what I thought until I saw my teammates' faces. They informed me I'd scored on our own basket, so it didn't count and the other team won. It was so humiliating! — Leeza, NY

Make a Monthly Budget!

Just because you're a kid doesn't mean you can't make a plan for using your money. Here's how!

Budgeting is an important tool for keeping track of your spending, savings, and giving (who you want to donate any money to). While there are various apps and online tools to help you make a budget, you can also go old school and write it all down. Here's how to set up a basic budget for each month.

MAKE MORE CENTS!

By having a plan mapped out each month, you're more likely to stick to it—and save more! And more savings = more fun.

128

My Budget

MONTH:
What I'm Saving For: Write down your goal item: a video game, a new toy, etc.
What I'll Spend On: Write down any potential things you'll spend money on this month: a birthday gift for Mom, ice cream with your friends, etc.

Earning Expectations
(Write down everything you think you'll earn this month.)
Allowance: $30
Gifts: $10
Odd jobs around the house: $20
Total: $60

Spending Expectations
(Write down everything you think you'll spend money on this month.)
Food and fun: $15
Toys: $5
Gifts: $20
Total: $40

Savings Expectations:
(Subtract your spending from your earnings.)
$20

Make a Plan!
Decide how you will divide up that savings.
Example:
$10 to a new bicycle
$10 into my piggy bank for long-term savings
